

Arab Cry For 'Holy War' Against Israel Could Overtake Reason

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Once again, as it has so many times in the 13 centuries of Islam, the cry for Jihad—holy war—echoes shrilly in the Arab East.

The flames which last week scorched the ancient Al Aksah Mosque in Jerusalem have fired Arabs' religious indignation. There is an impression abroad that a new sort of situation, a dangerous one, is building up.

Is another all-out war imminent?

In a sense, the 1967 "lightning" war never ended. It has been going on in various forms such as guerrilla warfare, psychological, propaganda and political conflict. There have been two years of raids, hit-and-run attacks, reprisals.

There are some yeasty ingredients present in the current situation suggesting that it could pass beyond the control of the leaders.

The Al Aksah fire provides such elements as the fedayeen, who are the guerrilla fighters of "liberation" organizations, with a rallying cry for defense of the Islamic faith.

No matter who or what started the blaze at the site of one of the most holy monuments to Mohammed, it can be blown up into yet another cause for the Arabs.

What Moslems choose to consider the defilement of a sacred shrine can evoke ancient Arab dreams of glory and power and the heroic figure of Salah ad-Din—Saladin—the 12th century conqueror who drove the Christian unbelievers out of holy Jerusalem and restored the city to Islam.

The nearest thing the Arabs have now to Saladin is President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. When crowds at the site of the fire chanted "Nasser! Nasser!" many may have been yearning for a new hero who once again would drive the unbeliever out of Jerusalem.

Nasser, who came within an ace of being toppled from his lofty perch after the June 1967 debacle of Egyptian arms, has been talking like a new Saladin but an eminently cautious one.

In a speech last month he declared that Arabs were on the verge of a new stage of the "liberation war."

"We, brothers, have resolved to fight to regain our land," he declared. "We consider that this is not only a right but a duty for every one of us."

"Jihad" is defined as a duty in the Islamic faith. But it sounds more ferocious than it really is. The philosophy is elastic, permitting wide latitude in interpretation. Basically the Koran, the Moslems' bible, stresses peace, and Jihad as bloodletting in the name of religion is a last resort. Jihad, indeed, can be performed simply by talking or thinking about it.

While the situation could get out of control, a number of things stand in the way of unified Arab effort against Israel.

For one thing, Arab disunity is chronic. There is only one real unifying factor, and that is the existence of Israel. Otherwise, the area's leadership is laced heavily with mistrust and suspicion.

Russians spent $2 billion since 1967 re-equipping and retraining Arab forces. Having seen a similar amount of hardware go up in smoke two years ago, Moscow is likely to be more careful this time with its advice.

Nasser has been warning Arabs that there is a long road ahead toward "liberation." Perhaps his Soviet friends are advising him that the road is better long than short. Moscow has plenty to keep it absorbed elsewhere, including its China frontier, and is unlikely to relish a big-power confrontation in the Middle East at this time.

Storm Builds At Sea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tropical storm Eve built toward hurricane intensity off the Florida coast today while repair work and the search for bodies continued in the areas ravaged by a lethal predecessor, Camille.

Eve was born in a tropical depression off Daytona Beach and scout planes encountered winds up to 60 miles an hour Monday night.

Forecasters said Eve, "young but active," probably would develop into the Atlantic season's fourth hurricane, but posed no immediate threat to any land mass.

A close alert was nevertheless counseled along the mid-Atlantic coast and in Bermuda.

Dr. Robert Simpson, chief of the National Hurricane Center at Miami, said further intensification was expected to occur, approaching hurricane intensity of 74 mile-an-hour winds during the day.

Financial help continued to pour in for victims of Camille's 190-mile-an-hour winds and crashing tides in Mississippi and Louisiana, and related floods which swept across Virginia.

The over-all death toll in the three states was estimated at not less than 276.

In Virginia, the James River returned to normal today as the flood toll reached 76 with 111 persons still missing. State officials said estimates of property damage have reached "a conservative" $132.4 million.

Virginia Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. planned to meet with state officials today in an effort to set more exact figures on the flood's costs in lives and dollars.

Richmond's flood damage was estimated at $9 million. Gasoline which had leaked from a partially submerged storage tank was washed from sewers and into the James River Monday, eliminating fears of a major explosion.

Along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, the search continued for those killed by Camille.

Food Plan For County Preferred

A food stamp program for the county's needy residents, rather than a surplus commodity food program, is now receiving consideration of Mayor Ralph Walker, the City Council and the County Court.

On Aug. 5, representatives of the Missouri Valley Human Resource Development Corp., the state Division of Welfare, the Pettis County Court and Mayor Walker met to discuss acceptance of the federal surplus commodity program, but no decision was reached at that meeting.

In a more recent meeting between Mayor Walker and the County Court, it was decided that a food stamp program would be more acceptable for the county's 1,746 persons on public assistance. Most of those persons live in Sedalia.

Israeli Jets Hit Arab Positions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets roared across the ceasefire line today to strike at suspected Arab sabotage bases south of the Dead Sea in Jordan.

The planes hit bases near Safi, five miles south of the sea at dusk, an Israeli army spokesman said.

The aircraft encountered light anti-aircraft fire, but all returned safely, he added.

It was the second straight day that Israeli planes hit Jordanian targets.

Israel threatened the Arabs with more retaliation for sabotage Monday night as the Arab nations moved closer to a sum-

British Offer to Study Report of Gas Injuries

LONDON (AP) — The British government offered today to send a specialist to Northern Ireland to check on reports that many of those exposed to CS riot control gas during the religious rioting two weeks ago are still suffering from diarrhea, vomiting and abdominal pains. Babies particularly were reported affected.

London newspapers seized on the reports, and editorials suggested the police in Londonderry shouldn't have been authorized to use the gas because not enough was known about its effects.

It was the first time the gas had been used in the United Kingdom against rioters. Doctors in Londonderry complained that the authorities were not able to give them the composition of the gas and they were unable to treat victims of it properly.

A spokesman for the British Defense Ministry said a medical officer with experience in chemical warfare agents would go to Ulster if requested by the government there.

He said there was concern in London because the modified tear gas had been used for some 10 years and there had never been reports before of prolonged side effects. CS is used, he said, because the tears, coughing and difficult breathing it causes usually clear up 10 minutes after the victim gets fresh air.

The Northern Ireland Parliament will be recalled Wednesday to set up a court of inquiry into the violent clashes between Catholics and Protestants, the government announced.

A government statement said the tribunal will have high court powers, including the authority to compel witnesses to appear.

Britain's new Northern Ireland trouble shooter, Oliver Wright, flew from London to Belfast today to begin his term as official adviser to the Ulster government. He is a deputy undersecretary of the Foreign Office.

In Northern Ireland, meanwhile, more than 90 per cent of the Protestant special police were reported balking at British army orders to turn in their arms.

US Fighter Bomber Lost Over Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that a Marine F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was lost over North Vietnam last Tuesday while escorting a reconnaissance plane. The two crewmen are missing.

It was the first American plane reported lost over North Vietnam since June 5 and sixth since U.S. bombing of North Vietnam halted last Nov. 1. Although the bombing stopped, regular reconnaissance flights have continued.

The U.S. Command said the plane "was reported missing while escorting an unarmed RF4 reconnaissance aircraft near the demilitarized zone."

A spokesman said other planes in the flight saw no evidence of enemy action and the loss was attributed to "unknown causes."

Announcement of the loss was delayed while a search was under way for the two missing fliers. But the U.S. Command said no trace of them or of the plane had been found, and the search had been discontinued.

Meanwhile hard fighting broke out again Monday in the rolling foothills southwest of Da Nang, and military spokesmen said at least 138 North Vietnamese and 12 Americans had been killed and 97 Americans wounded.

The fighting flared up again less than two miles from Hiep Duc, a district capital 32 miles southwest of Da Nang which Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor visited Monday. Military spokesmen said Resor got within six miles of the fighting and the "usual security precautions were taken."

Two companies of U.S. Marines from the 7th Regiment were hit hard when they came under heavy machine-gun and rifle fire while sweeping a ridge.

Eleven Marines were killed and 41 wounded in the fighting, which lasted from early afternoon until "the remaining enemy withdrew under cover of darkness," U.S. headquarters said.

It added that enemy losses were not known yet.

Meanwhile, two miles to the southwest, a reconnaissance patrol from the 196th Light Infantry Brigade flushed another North Vietnamese force, and about 250 American infantrymen battled them for two hours.

The U.S. Command said 74 enemy were killed, many of them by artillery and helicopter gunships, while American casualties were one killed and 49 wounded.

U.S. headquarters said soldiers of the 196th Brigade killed 12 more North Vietnamese in another small skirmish in the area, seven of the Americans were wounded.

Meanwhile, Resor made a brief helicopter trip from Hiep Duc to a mountaintop American patrol base nearby called Landing Zone Center and there met Lt. Col. Robert B. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., commander of a battalion of the 196th Brigade, and his executive officer, Maj. Richard Waite of Reynoldsville, Va.

The enlisted men in one of Bacon's three companies, after five days of hard fighting and heavy losses, had refused on Sunday to move out once more against the enemy. But Waite and Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W. Va., visited them, and after some tough talk from the sergeant, the GIs picked up their rifles and went back into action.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command said today there would be no formal investigation of the brief rebellion.

"They went back into combat," he said. "The thing was well handled. The unit the company belonged to was aware of it and corrective action was taken."

The company was reportedly still in the field, but since Sunday has met little resistance.

Shortly after Resor's helicopters took him away from Landing Zone Center, South Vietnamese troops 2½ miles to the southwest spotted about 200

Sewage Treatment Is Urged by Board

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Water Pollution Board today urged cities along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers to provide secondary treatment of sewage as soon as possible.

Currently the deadline for the work is Dec. 31, 1982. The Federal Water Pollution Control Administration has suggested the date be moved up to 1975.

At a meeting of the Missouri Board last Friday a motion to set the date at Dec. 31, 1978 failed for lack of a second.

Theodore Scott of Buffalo, vice chairman of the board, offered the motion. He charged the board's statement urging action as soon as possible was "pusyfooting around" and would not force cities or industries to do anything.

In its statement the board said silt is the largest pollutant in the Missouri River and in the Mississippi below the Alton Dam. Eighty-five per cent of the mud moving past St. Louis is contributed by the Missouri.

"The scope of the silt problem has not been fully evaluated," the board said, "nor is there a cost estimate for erosion control."

Guide to Help Legislators Investigate Military Ways

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sort of primer on military ways is making the rounds on Capitol Hill to help lawmakers studying defense issues.

It tells them where to look, who to talk to, and even contains a sample outline for probing defense programs and weapons systems.

Entitled "A Guide to Researching Defense Issues," the 11-page annotated bibliography and accompanying outline was prepared by the Democratic Study Group, a bloc of 140 moderate and liberal House Democrats.

"There's a lot more interest in defense that wasn't there a year ago," explained a DSG staff member. The guide got started when several members asked how to go about researching defense issues.

"Congressmen are beginning to look for more information than that provided by the Department of Defense," he added. "And, there's the consensus among many that the armed services and appropriations committees aren't asking all the questions that need to be answered."

"This just tries to help by pointing them in the right direction," said the staffer, who had a hand in producing the guide.

The guide lists, together with brief, critical comment:

—Books, articles, statements and pamphlets it says are useful in developing a general understanding of defense policies. Included is a book by former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, which the DSG guide describes as "not objective, but a useful description of the 'McNamara era' at DOD."

—Periodicals of specialized nature dealing with strategic issues and the technicalities of weapons systems. A sample is "Navy," published by the Navy League. "Opinionated, short articles which are more colorful than authoritative."

—Annual compilations describing force levels and weapons systems for all countries.

—Individuals—and their telephone numbers—whose job it is to assist congressional staffs in defense matters.

With more and more congressmen taking a hard look at defense spending versus civilian needs, the DSG publishing list grows.

Last month, DSG put out a 70-page booklet analyzing the defense budget for the 1970 fiscal year. Included were fact sheets on military policies and controversial weapons systems such as the trouble-plagued main battle tank and the Cheyenne helicopter.

The booklet laid down arguments for and against each system and program "to help the congressmen make their own decisions," the DSG said.

Coming up is a pamphlet spelling out how the defense budget is put together by military planners. It will show, according to the DSG staffer how and where the Pentagon pads its budgetary needs in anticipation of cuts by Congress.

Do Not Meet US Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eight states have yet to meet federal requirements for traffic safety programs. And unless they do, a portion of their federal aid will be cut off next year.

Federal officials have tentatively approved highway safety plans of 42 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Initial plans of five of the eight remaining states have been rejected. Decisions on the other three were postponed pending additional information.

The five are Alabama, Kentucky, Montana, Tennessee and Texas. Maryland, Oklahoma and Washington were asked to submit more data.

Congress called for landmark national standards in the Highway Safety Act of 1966.

The standards were originally to take effect this year. But Congress postponed the deadline an additional year to Jan. 1, 1970.

States with unapproved programs will automatically lose their share of federal aid for traffic safety, which amounted to $39.9 million last year. They also could be docked up to 10 per cent of their federal highway construction funds.

The 16 federal standards range from periodic motor vehicle inspection to mandatory blood tests for motorists charged with drunken driving.

The others encompass motorcycle safety, driver education, modern record keeping for licenses and registration, uniform traffic codes, efficient traffic courts, emergency medical services and pedestrian safety.

Initially states are not required to meet each standard. But they must demonstrate reasonable progress. And they will be re-examined periodically.

A spokesman for the National Highway Safety Bureau said states that have already received tentative approval will almost certainly have full certification for their programs by year's end.

The other eight can still submit the needed information for revised plans to come into compliance, he said.

Ann Landers

A Neighbor Helps Teens in Trouble

Dear Ann Landers: Thank you for the column "Child Abuse Is Everybody's Business." That column helped me feel less like a fool. Here's my story.

Several weeks ago I answered a knock at the door. Three teenage girls were standing on the porch, tears streaming down their faces. I couldn't tell whether they were laughing or crying.

One girl sobbed out the story. A man in a car rode along the curb and seemed to be following them. They ignored him. Finally he pulled his car up and blocked their pathway as they tried to cross the street. When he opened the car door and tried to grab one of the girls, they saw he was naked from the waist down. The girls ran down the street and began pounding on doors. Two people would not let them in. I did.

I gave them a pencil and paper and told them to write down as many details as they could remember. Then I called the police. The police came promptly. They were courteous and kind and drove the girls home.

Several friends criticized me severely for letting the girls in my home. They said I was taking a terrible chance. Maybe

I was, but I don't see how a decent human can turn his back on kids in trouble. Was I wrong? Have things changed that much? — Keeper of My Brother's Children

Dear Keeper: Of course you were taking a chance but it's a chance you HAD to take. Insensitivity to the suffering of others is symptomatic of a sick society. As card-carrying members of the human race we have an obligation to respond to the needs of others. This is what distinguishes us from animals.

Dear Ann Landers: From time to time you print letters from wives who complain about husbands who refuse to bathe, won't brush their teeth, and sleep in dirty underwear. You have pointed out that these men are sick and of course you are right.

What about women who have the problem in reverse? My mother made a fetish of cleanliness. Our home smelled like a hospital because mom used the strongest antiseptics on everything. She made us wash the mouthpiece on the telephone every time we finished talking. If anyone in the family had a cold he had to wear a surgical mask. As kids we were never allowed to give anyone a bite of anything, like an apple or a piece of candy.

I'm trying to raise my children to be neat but not nuts. My husband says I am too lenient and that our girls are growing up to be very sloppy. Please comment. — Middling Mother.

Dear Mother: Have you considered the possibility that you have been too permissive because of your own unfortunate childhood? On the outside chance that your husband has a legitimate complaint, tighten up. Sloppy boys are bad enough, but a girl who is allowed to grow up with poor grooming habits is out in left field without a glove.

Too many couples go from matrimony to acrimony. Don't let your marriage flop before it gets started. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50c in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Students, Not Workers, Got Biggest Pay Hikes

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the biggest pay raises in the past year or so have gone to students rather than workers. That conclusion can be drawn from a comparison of starting salaries for the 1969 and 1968 classes.

And the question arises: If big wage increases to old workers can be inflationary, can't the increases to new workers also tend to increase prices?

Graduates of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, for example, won starting salaries of $1,082 a month this year compared to $959 a month in 1968. The difference amounts to $1,476 a year, or 12 per cent.

Although youngsters with masters degrees from Wharton and other business schools are likely to continue moving fast for several years, if only because of momentum, it's a sure bet that some years will pass without a pay raise of nearly that percentage.

In fact, should increases of this sort prevail throughout industry they would set off the wildest inflation this nation has ever known.

There is some evidence, in fact, that the beginning wages paid to graduates are part of the cause-effect of inflation, for management is likely to ward off grumblings from older workers by re-evaluating their pay scales as well.

It seems a contradiction then to read that Arthur Letcher, placement director of the parent University of Pennsylvania, disassociates the high beginning salaries from inflation and attributes them to competition instead.

"No matter what happens with inflation," he said, "I expect to see some talented Wharton graduates receiving $1,600 to $1,700 a month to start in a couple of years."

There is a good deal of evidence to support Letcher's judgment that it is competition for talent that produces the increases. There are several underpinnings to his case.

First, workers with the Master of Business Administration degree have talent. Straight from the classroom, they often are able to bring the latest innovations to companies whose concepts and notions have become so encrusted they are unable to compete in a changing environment.

Whether this demand continues is subject to some doubts, for more than a few companies have found MBAs a precocious lot who want the president's job within five years and toss a tantrum if they don't get it.

A second major reason for the demand is that in many companies there are big age gaps in management positions. A company is in trouble if its ablest managers are grouped around ages 30 and 60, with few men in the 40s and 50s.

One-of-a-Kind Small Rolls

EDISON, N.J. (AP) — Want to buy a mini Rolls-Royce that's only 9 feet long, less than 3 feet high and actually runs?

Such a car—an exact miniature of the famous 1919 "Silver Ghost" Roadster—is parked among an array of prewar British automobiles in a nondescript garage in this small township.

Walter Wolfson obtained the minicar a number of years ago when he gave up his structural steel sales-engineering career to devote full time to his hobby of collecting classic vintage automobiles.

Wolfson, an affable man who untiringly explains the history of each of his cars to any inquiring visitor, buys and sells antique autos across the world. He also supplies unique cars for movies and advertisements.

Explaining how the small roadster was built, Wolfson recalled that in 1919 a Pennsylvania man, Arthur Llewellyn, ordered a regular sized Silver Ghost—a two-seater that was quite fashionable.

After receiving his new car, Llewellyn was so thrilled with its style and performance that he called the Rolls-Royce dealer in Virginia to express his satisfaction and asked that a duplicate be made for his two children.

What he failed to tell the dealer, Wolfson explained, was that his youngsters were 5 and 7 years old at the time and what he really wanted was a pedal-type car for them to play with.

About a year later, he recounted, Llewellyn received his

"order" and a bill for almost $10,000.

"He went into a state of shock for a couple of days," Wolfson said, when the man discovered that an exact miniature had been handmade—down to its headlights, bumpers, wooden spoked wheels, full transmission, radiator emblem and everything else the "mother car" had.

The vehicle, the only one of its kind in the world, is powered by a four-cylinder gasoline engine and will do about 30 miles per hour, Wolfson added.

"But after the shock wore off, Llewellyn drove the little Silver Ghost, fell in love with it and the kids never did get it," Wolfson explained. Llewellyn drove it for a number of years and then added it to his automobile collection.

When asked if he would part with the car, Wolfson said yes. "I've never advertised it for sale," he said, "but like any of my other cars, if someone wants it they can purchase it." He added, however, the car has a five-figure price tag on it.

Public Auction Of Properties Nets Tax Funds

A public auction held at the Pettis County courthouse Monday morning brought $1,120.74 for 17 pieces of property on which no city or county taxes had been paid since 1964.

City Collector Mrs. Opal Hugelmann said her office collected $453.00 on seven pieces of city property. More than $500 had been collected at the sale Monday, but one bid was withdrawn.

County Collector Raymond Wilder reported 10 properties were sold in the county, bringing $677.14 in unpaid taxes over the last five years.

Mrs. Hugelmann said it was the best attended and biggest public auction of its kind in her seven years as city collector.

Former property owners have two years to redeem their deeds to auctioned property, if they assume tax payments, as well as interest payments on the taxes and a certain interest payment to the new owner, according to Mrs. Hugelmann. She added, however, that in the case of city property, only three deeds have been redeemed in seven years.

GOP Plan For State Revisions

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — The Republican State Central Committee will be asked to approve sweeping changes in its structure at its Sept. 12 meeting in Columbia.

A special advisory committee recommended at a meeting Monday night that 20 per cent of the 60 members of the committee be chosen by voters instead of congressional district committees.

The advisory committee also recommended eliminating a requirement that half the state committee members be men, and half of them women, that ward committeemen and committeewomen not be allowed to serve in state committee posts and that procedures for removal of members be established.

Elmer Smith, state Republican chairman, said the recommendations, together with any growing out of a Sept. 8 meeting of the advisory group, will be presented to the State Committee in Columbia.

"I don't expect the State Committee to take any action at that time," Smith said. "Probably a committee of the State Committee will be appointed to study the recommendations."

Smith said some of the proposed changes, notably the method of selecting committee members, require legislative action and the support of the Democratic State Committee.

The Republican chairman said change is needed.

"If political organizations are going to mean anything, we're going to have to make the membership more responsible to the general public and we can do that by public elections," Smith said.

At present, six state committee members — three men and three women — are chosen by each of the 10 congressional district committees. Members of the advisory group said all 60 should be popularly elected, but 20 per cent is probably as far as the state committee would go at this time.

North Vietnamese troops moving in the open. The South Vietnamese called in about 150 rounds of American artillery fire, and U.S. headquarters in Saigon said the barrage killed 52 North Vietnamese.

Fierce fighting has raged in the foothills area for the past nine days. American forces reported killing more than 500 North Vietnamese there last week, while as many as 40 Americans were killed and more than 160 wounded.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in the area are trying to keep the North Vietnamese 2nd Division from moving out of the hills into the densely populated valleys and then down into the coastal lowlands.

Army units from the U.S. Americal Division hold a line of hilltop outposts and artillery bases that overlook the approaches to the Hiep Duc and Que Son Valleys.

Laird Says More Cuts 'Dangerous'

ATLANTA (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird charged Tuesday that congressional critics who demand further big cuts in the Pentagon budget "are urging a very dangerous course."

The defense chief told the American Legion's national convention he has pared $4.1 billion from the defense spending proposal he inherited from the Johnson administration but "even these cuts do not satisfy some critics who impatiently demand additional major reductions."

"If we are forced by congressional action to make such additional cuts, the end result would be counterproductive," he said. "Rather than achieving real and lasting savings, we could instead be producing greater inefficiency, higher long term costs and greater problems than already exist in such intangibles as morale and personnel efficiency."

Laird's defense of the proposed Pentagon budget for fiscal year 1970 came only a few days after he announced new reductions of $3 billion to bring the budget down to $77 billion.

Laird said it is especially important that Congress not force major cuts from the $6 billion request for defense research and development. "The part of our effort that provides our military strength for the future."

Vietnam requires about $36 billion for the current fiscal year, and that, Laird said, "can be reduced only as a result of national policy decision which reduced the level of our effort such as the 25,000 troop redeployment announced by the President at Midway."

UMKC's Catholic Chaplain Resigns

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Rev. T. Philip Tompkins, 36, assistant chaplain at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, has resigned as a Roman Catholic priest.

Father Tompkins issued a seven-page statement on his concern over "the strange manner in which those in control of the organizational aspects of the Catholic community conduct themselves in times of important challenges to the policies of the present."

Msgr. William Baum, chancellor of the Kansas City-St. Joseph Catholic diocese, said Monday the resignation was received with regret.

Ordained in 1960, Father Tompkins spent all but three years of his priesthood as a chaplain, serving at Central Missouri State in Warrensburg before moving to UMKC.

Earlier this month the Rev. John P. Cole, superintendent of schools in the Catholic diocese, announced his resignation as a priest.

Warrensburg Vote For Plant Bonds

WARRENSBURG — Voters here went to the polls Tuesday to decide a $180,000 general industrial obligation bond issue for expansion of the Stahl Specialty Co., plant here.

The new plant, which would eventually employ 35 to 40 men, would be built northeast of the city on Warrensburg's industrial tract, using the Warrensburg Foundry building as well as constructing a new building.

The firm's plant in Kingsville, Mo., has been struck by United Steelworkers local 7211, which opposed the Warrensburg bond issue.

EDITORIALS

Seeing Is Believing

Granted that peculiar antics of bad boys and bad girls stimulate copious criticism and publicity, the Missouri State Fair the past ten days was witness to the positive side of youth.

Looking out the window of a bus as a parade of six bands marched past, a woman passenger emphatically declared: "Look at those boys and girls from Missouri towns, healthy, active, and talented. Those are the ones representative of the majority of our young people. I'm tired of hearing about the minority of bad ones."

Similar opinions were expressed by adults who visited the new $382,000 Youth Building west of the Coliseum. This is a bit off the customary paths of Fair pedestrians, but it is a showplace free to visitors and worth the price of admission to the grounds. Here courteous attendants gave guided tours to visitors, showing the boys' and girls' dormitories, the modern kitchen facilities, the sales barn and show arena. This building is a far cry from the makeshift and inadequate accommodations young 4-H and Future Farmers have been accustomed to on the Missouri State Fair grounds.

Quarters in the new building were meticulously supervised around the clock, and it was a delight to hear departing youngsters thank their elders for an unusually hospitable, comfortable and educational week at the Fair.

We wonder how many Missouri state legislators took time to visit the Youth

Building, or even come to the Fair itself, to witness what this exhibition means to the people of Missouri. If more did so every year they might have a different conception about it. They might revise their thinking about reducing appropriations like they did so impulsively by slicing off $148,875 last May. Fortunately, the following month $84,575 of this amount was restored.

We believe that Missouri legislators should give more thought to the Missouri State Fair than they have in the past—or at least as much as they gave to the state retirement bill which provided that a legislator may now retire at the age of 55 after 20 years of service and receive a pension of $6,720 a year for the rest of his life. To be eligible he must have served at least six years in the General Assembly.

Legislators would change their tune about appropriations if they would spend more time walking around the 360 acres of fair grounds studying the reactions of people at the grass roots participating in the ten days' exhibition here.

They'd probably become as expressive as one conservative taxpayer who remarked: "After seeing what is being done for future Missouri citizens—like the facilities of the Youth Building which provide inspiration and discipline—I can visualize more adequately for what purposes my tax money is being used. That being made possible, I can approve of it."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Deficiencies in South Viet Army

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — The army has completed a secret study which could upset President Nixon's plan to pull more combat troops out of Vietnam. This disturbing document warns bluntly that the South Vietnamese Army lacks the leadership, logistics and organization to take over the fighting from American troops.

Too many commanders, the study states, are still chosen more for their political connections than for their military competence. Officers with good political credentials will often ignore orders from superiors who may not travel in the right circles.

The supply system is so snafued that essentials often don't reach the troops in the field. Some supplies get siphoned into the black market; some are simply misrouted. What gets through is so meager that combat commanders frequently avoid combat rather than expend their supplies. They're afraid the supplies may never be replaced.

At the enlisted level, South Vietnamese soldiers often are forced to steal food from the peasants, which is the wrong way to gain friends in the Viet Cong-ridden countryside. Many men desert, not because they're unwilling to fight but because they need to feed themselves and their families.

The South Vietnamese Army has some crack units whose officers and men are as good as any in Asia. The Ranger Battalions, for example, have proved themselves under fire. But in most units, according to the secret study, the leadership is so poor and is so low that they are far from ready to replace the Americans.

—Russian Provocation—
Grim evidence has reached Washington that Russia is preparing for continued hostility along the remote Sinkiang border. Intelligence reports indicate, however, that the Kremlin is divided over how far to push the fighting against the Chinese.

There now seems to be little doubt that the Russians provoked the incidents. They selected the Sinkiang border where the Chinese are the most vulnerable. Not only do the Russians have swifter access to the border, but the mountain tribes in Sinkiang are anti-Chinese.

Some Red army marshals have urged using the border incidents as a pretext for knocking out the Chinese nuclear works not less than 200 miles inside Sinkiang. The majority in the Kremlin, however, are reported to be opposed to all-out war with China. It fears a Soviet attack deep inside China would only arouse the 700 million population and unite it against Russia.

At present, there is a strong pro-Soviet faction in China. The Kremlin's strategy, apparently is to provoke trouble on the border and create tension inside China, hoping this will cause the downfall of the aging Mao Tse-Tung. Then the pro-Soviet forces might get a chance to seize control of the Peking government.

Meanwhile, reinforcements have been rushed to the border and the local populace is receiving civil defense training. Throughout Russia, an anti-Chinese propaganda campaign is also preparing the people for continued trouble.

Note: Russia has been trying quietly to stop the Arab artillery attacks and commando raids on Israel. The Russians have enough trouble with the Chinese in the Far East, so they don't want the Arabs to involve them in another crisis now in the Middle East. The Russians have a historical aversion to getting embroiled on two fronts at the same time. So they are using their influence in Arab capitals, particularly Cairo, to keep the Arabs as peaceful as possible.

—Headlines and Footnotes—

Two of the top ladies in government — Interstate Commerce Chairwoman Virginia Mae Brown and Federal Maritime Chairwoman Helen Delich Bentley — quietly settled a feud between their two agencies the over evening in a private railway car in the nation's capital. They were guests of C. R. Barfos, vice president of the B & O Railroad, at a very, very private dinner. The two ladies cordially agreed to stop the feuding over which agency should set the rates for transportation across international borders. . . . Sen. Ted Kennedy denied my story that he was familiar with Dyke Road, which he said he entered by mistake on the night of Mary Jo Kopechne's drowning. This column reported he and the late President Kennedy had used a secluded beach nearby belonging to the family of ex-Congressman Perkins Bass. Bass rushed out with a denial, but he has now started to backpedal. Under reporters' questioning, he has now acknowledged that late John F. Kennedy had called for permission to use the family beach while he was recuperating from his 1954 back operation. Bass asserts, however, that Kennedy would anchor his boat a short distance from the Bass beach, therefore, that he technically didn't use it. The New York Times has also reported that both Jack and Ted Kennedy frequently came by boat to Chappaquiddick Island, therefore, that the senator must have been familiar with the island. . . . Sen. Kennedy also denied my report that his cousin Joe Gargan and friend Paul Markham had rustled up a boat to take him across the channel away from the scene of the accident that fateful night. Now F. Remington Ballou, a Providence, R. I., businessman, has turned up with an eye-witness account of seeing a boat with three men aboard crossing the channel around 2 a.m. He said the boat had doused its lights. The following morning, a 16-year-old boy reported his boat had disappeared during the night. He later found it tied up at the wrong place. . . . This column has learned that a Boston lawyer, Paul J. Redmond, has been retained as counsel for the five girls who attended the beach party with Mary Jo Kopechne. He once served as an assistant U.S. attorney under Paul Markham, who was with Sen. Kennedy the night of the accident. Reached on the telephone, Redmond refused to answer any questions at all. He wouldn't say whether he was even acquainted with any of the Kennedys or any of their associates. His reply to every question was: "I have no comment on any aspect of this case."

Looking Backward

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO
We learn from Marshal Gallie who has just completed the city assessment that the assessed value of real estate in Sedalia, not including railroad property, amounts to $2,652.00.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Mayor O. B. Poundstone has received formal notice of the surrender to the City of Sedalia of $100,000, four and one-half per cent city hospital bonds, a gift to the city by the late John H. Bothwell whose death occurred August 4. These bonds have all been cancelled and they will be destroyed in some way that will provide proper recognition to Sedalia's benefactor.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
The Nehi Bottling Co., Fifth and Engineer avenue, established in Sedalia in 1927 by the late T. O. Buzzard, and since his death last January owned by his wife and operated by her sister, Mrs. Rose McFarland, has been sold to Lee Munger, Nehi company operator in Jefferson City. Mr. Munger's cousin, Orrin Munger will manage the business, coming here from Louisiana, Mo.

Thought for Today

The manner of a student's appearance may not be regulated by administrative order where fashion or taste is the sole criteria. . . . The standards of taste of a previous generation of students are an insufficient basis for the imposition of restrictions upon students today. — Ruling by New York State Education Commissioner, giving O.K. to long hair for boys and miniskirts and pants for girls in public schools.

Democrat Pickups

The pretty young girl turned around and there stood Pat Boone.

He smiled down at her and asked: "What's your name?"

"Deanne" she said, a little numb from the shock.

"Deanne what?" he asked, "what's your last name?"

Looking up at him blankly she replied: "I don't know." H.L.

Ersatz House for $10,000, Thanks to Space Science

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — On the small Rincon Indian reservation north of San Diego stands a brand new prototype house which ought to stir everyone concerned with the nation's headlong push toward a population of 300 million by the year 2000.

To the naked eye, at a little distance, it looks like a conventional, even old-fashioned adobe ranch house with a Spanish-style red tile roof. Actually, it could help to revolutionize the housing industry.

The big news about it is that it is the work of 12 aerospace engineers who were eager to show what could be done through applying to the civilian scene some of the key technologies developed in pursuing the remarkable space program.

They have turned out a house that, as designed with three bedrooms and a two-stall garage, could sell for $10,000 if produced in substantial volume. If made somewhat more compact, it is estimated the selling price could be brought to around $6,000.

The prototype is almost wholly a thing of composite materials, principally fiberglass and resins (for bonding). Resins are similarly used to bond metal surfaces in today's aircraft construction. They are also vital to the heat shield of the Apollo spacecraft.

Other engineers have looked at the Rincon model and pronounced it sound and durable, perhaps more resistant to California's occasional earthquakes than anything that could be built.

The new house is conventional in style because the Indian leaders were given their choice and that was it.

What the aerospace engineers have done is to simulate adobe, tile, wood and other surfaces which mask the fiberglass composite. This reporter has seen the simulated surfaces and all have the look of the real thing. Evidently the composite can be made to resemble any building or decorative material.

The Rincon experiment is a bellwether in the use of aerospace technologies in earthbound civilian realms. But in California other space engineers are trying to apply their techniques and modes of thinking to the problems of pollution, and there is one cluster of specialists prepared to apply space expertise to almost any imaginable earthly challenge.

The 12 engineers who worked up the Rincon prototype got off and moving because two one-time Yale law school classmates, Ray Lamontagne and Alan Novak, were looking for a chance to implement programs in various fields that seem desperately to need what they call "development technologies."

They formed Material Systems Corp., found a businessman, Joseph Elman, to head it, and put the 12 aerospace experts to work on the house problem.

Starting only last September, these men threw into the task their average 20 years' experience in space materials' breakthroughs. Their results clearly offer great promise.

Everything in the model is of composite except the core bathroom facilities. The company plans to erect soon a small factory on the Rincon reservation to prepare materials for further construction.

The word is getting about. A New York construction firm has placed an order for siding made of MSC's composite. Architects and others are traipsing to Rincon to study the prototype.

With overhead, start-up costs and the materials pioneering cranked in, the adobe house at Rincon actually cost $150,000. But Lamontagne and Novak, who have a varied background in public service, insist an ultimate selling-price range of $6,000 to $10,000 is reasonable for similar houses in standard production.

Whatever the future of this particular prototype, it is a ringing response to those who say space engineers cannot cut it in the earthbound world.

A letter from Montreal discusses baseball and the Montreal "Expos" for awhile and then turns to luck in duplicate. It seems that in a recent duplicate our correspondent arrived at a normal four-spade contract. West made the generally bad opening lead of a singleton trump but East's trump holding was impregnable and the writer had no way to bring in 10 tricks.

At other tables the nine of hearts was led. West would cover dummy's queen with the king. Declarer would win the trick, play out his ace and king of trumps, continue with king, ace and a low diamond which he would ruff. With diamonds breaking 3-3, declarer would enter dummy with the jack of hearts and lead a fourth diamond. East would ruff right in but South would discard his third heart and wind up losing just two clubs and a trump.

We sometimes want to tell people they can find sympathy in the dictionary somewhere between sucker and syzygy, but we do sympathize with this writer. We would have opened a heart with the West hand without any hesitation but the heart lead should not have let declarer make the game.

Bridge players have been brought up on the rules of "cover an honor with an honor" and "second hand high," but this was a time for neither. All East had to do would be to let dummy hold that first heart trick.

After that play South would be condemned to defeat. He could set up the diamonds but would have no way to get to dummy to lead the fourth and would wind up looking for sympathy just as our correspondent did.

The inspiration for Elbert Hubbard's essay, "A Message to Garcia," which sold 40 million copies and is said to have been written in an hour, was Lt. Andrew S. Rowan, U.S. Army. During the Spanish-American War, The World Almanac notes, Rowan secured secret information about insurgent forces from Gen. Garcia after searching for him through perilous Cuban jungles.

Soviet, China Rulers Make Political Hay Out of 'War'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Messages to this reporter from Hong Kong and Tokyo indicate the Sino-Soviet border fighting has become so profitable to both Moscow and Peking domestically that neither may be willing to let the clashes die down.

In Peking, Mao Tse-tung and Lin Biao are using the border troubles as an excuse to shift army commands and the command structure so as to eliminate the power of some regional rivals with such great influence among local troops that they threaten the power of the Mao-Lin government in the outlying areas of Communist China.

Sinking, home of sizable amounts of Red China's nuclear and missile work, has been a major worry. High provincial and military men have in the recent past made clear they intended to hold onto their local empire. Though the most dangerous (to Mao) of these men have been removed, it is likely they still have a strong following among the next several layers of leadership. These additional shifts, very tricky politically, may be possible in the war-crisis atmosphere now being promoted by both Moscow and Peking.

The clashes also make it easier for the Peking government to make some of the radical population moves made necessary by food shortages and an abundance of restless youth in the cities.

Communist China is now plagued by its own version of the "New Left." Unhappy youngsters who don't fit into the system are becoming more numerous. Members of the Red Guards who have overstayed their usefulness are becoming an embarrassment. As rapidly as possible, these disturbing influences are being moved into the countryside where, the authorities believe, their dissidence will be so diffused as to be meaningless.

There is little worry that these protesters will link up with the regional leaders who defy Peking off and on. The quite different outlook of the two groups makes them natural enemies rather than allies against the Mao-Lin rule. The border disputes have provided a convenient reason for organizing development units among the city youth and shipping them off to the threatened areas to the West.

Moscow likewise is using the border flareups as a means of cutting down dissent — especially criticism over the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Since the increase in tension along the China border, it has become more difficult to speak out in Russia. For one thing, the Communist Chinese have taken the Czech side. This means that the Russian who objects to the aggression in Czechoslovakia automatically is marked as a sympathizer with Red China. This is a box few Russians care to enter. The lot of the protester is especially difficult because those very men apt to worry over the plight of the Czechs are likely to feel especially antipathetic to what they feel to be the extremely repressivistic "Stalinism" of Mao's China.

And, the growing border crisis is giving Leonid Brezhnev a free hand in demanding and carrying out military and other governmental shifts aimed at strengthening his hands in the Far Eastern territories.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Cases of Bad Breath Have Variety of Causes

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I have bad breath. I've been told it's because tartar is not scraped from my teeth often enough. But I go to the dentist for teeth cleaning every six months and I brush my teeth at least three times a day and use (blank) mouthwash. What shall I do? I'm so distressed I'd consider having all my teeth taken out if that would help. — Signed: Joyce (Please don't use my last name in your column).

DEAR JOYCE: For goodness sakes, don't take your teeth out. That would be a terrible mistake and your BB might be even worse afterwards.

Most serious mouth odors don't come from teeth but from sinuses, throat, lungs, stomach and esophagus; and from eating habits, smoking and drinking.

Mouths share the blame, too, of course. Food left on teeth and gums soon putrefies and causes foul odors. Why does food collect around and between teeth?

Because many teeth have natural or developed (due to poor dentistry) spaces between them; food collects in these spaces and it's difficult to remove.

Because of periodontal disease which causes gum pockets and pus areas.

Because food collects in cavities. However, those who allow their teeth to develop wide-open cavities are usually not the ones who worry about BB. Because teeth aren't brushed after eating, or brushed well enough to eliminate all food deposits.

What can your dentist and YOU do to correct these faults?

Contacts between teeth can be made tight enough to prevent food from getting jammed in. Cleaning and scraping, called oral prophylaxis, by dentist or hygienist should be done at least every six months and more frequently if necessary, depending on how quickly tartar and stain collect. Infected gum pockets can be treated by periodontal care or surgically eliminated if necessary.

Home care is most important. Brush after every meal and use floss if necessary. Deep furrowed, rough, tongues should be cleaned every time you brush; food often collects in crevices of the tongue and among its papillae.

Further than that, you must be aware that certain foods cause BB: onions, garlic, cabbage, smelly cheeses, marinated meats, etc.

If good dental treatment and good home care don't eliminate BB, then a physical exam is advised to find possible systemic causes.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — Someone was telling me that all guns had to be registered with IRS last year. Is that true?

A — No. Ordinary guns, such as revolvers, pistols, rifles and shotguns used for hunting and sporting purposes, did not have to be registered with IRS. Only criminal or gangster-type weapons such as sawed-off shotguns, machine guns and short-barreled rifles had to be registered by December 2, 1968.

Grenades, bombs, rockets and projectile firing weapons such as bazookas and mortars also had to be registered.

'Mannix' Last TV Detective

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television's last surviving private eye, "Mannix," will keep his gun loaded and his fists clenched and bare during a season when man-to-man physical confrontations are definitely out of style.

Mike Connors, the star of the CBS series that soon will start its third season, believes that a little action can go a long way but that the audience will feel cheated and unhappy without any.

"There are few enough action series left," he ruminates glumly as he munches a ham and cheese sandwich during a lunch break.

"But we will still have fights when they seem necessary—it is logical when the criminal is about to be apprehended. And we'll have some gun-play, too." Connors blamed pressure from the top for the trend away from violence.

"Sen. Pastore (a critic of TV violence) and a few others are really censoring what you and I are going to see on our television screens," Connors said. "I just don't think that people want that way."

"We have the very best censoring devices in our own homes. If we don't like what we see on television, we can turn off the set. What I don't like is having someone saying ahead of time what I can see and what I can't."

Connors, in a director's chair on the sidewalk of a mid-Hollywood residential street, paused to open a container of butter-milk.

"I remember when I was growing up and watching John Wayne's wildest fights on the screen," he continued. "He was in good fighting shows about a clean-cut American who was defending the right. He was a strong man."

"If we're going to outlaw violence, let's really do it. Let's get rid of football, boxing, hockey and wrestling. That's all based on violence and most of it, like the blood spilled, is real."

Connors said that of course he believes that television shows should be in good taste—two words which are hard to define—but that he deplores "letting a few men impose their standards and tell you what you can see."

Parents, he said, are responsible for their children's viewing habits. He has two of his own, and said that a routine question from his 10-year-old son and 9-year-old daughter is "Pop, what's the movie? Can I watch it?" He often says no and makes it stick.

"But on the other hand, I don't want my kids to grow up believing that there is nothing destructive in the world. I want them to know that there is good and bad in the world, that you can be hurt physically, that guns can kill you, that drugs are bad for you, that not everyone means well."

ABC had second thoughts about NBC's double specials on Sept. 22, and postponed the premieres of two of its big series, "The Survivors" and "Love, American Style" until Sept. 29. Nobody, not even Lana Turner, wants to battle Bob Hope and two dozen top comedians followed by Flip Wilson.

More Food Flown To Mississippi

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Another 12 million pounds of food is on its way to victims of hurricane Camille at Jackson, Miss., the U.S. Department of Agriculture says.

Russell H. James, southeastern regional director of the Food and Nutrition Service, said some 30 carloads of canned goods have been diverted to restock emergency supplies.

He said more than 2 million pounds of USDA foods, which can be prepared and eaten without cooking, have already been moved to the Gulf Coast for the mass feeding of storm victims housed temporarily in community shelters.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Some Great Suggestions For Bazaars, Christmas

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR GIRLS—The following are two great ideas for those of you who are now working on things for fall bazaars or for Christmas gifts.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Pearl and the other girls can make good-looking pen-and-pencil holders from toilet tissue tubes. Four equal notches resembling teeth first should be cut 1/2-inch from one end and turned in for the bottom. This will be glued to four popsicle sticks forming the base. Glue popsicle sticks, side by side, to the outside of the tube. These holders can be painted or decorated in many ways for a variety of effects.—MRS. N. J. F.

DEAR POLLY—One of the girls in our office made scissors holders out of toilet tissue tubes and gave them for Christmas gifts. I have really enjoyed mine and could use one in every room in the house.

Buy cotton rug yarn all one color or mixed according to personal preference. Cut yarn in sections about 22-to-24-inches long. Double each strand and looped end through tube, bring to the bottom, slip loose ends through the tube is covered. Continue doing this all around until the tube is covered. Leave the fringe beyond the looped edge at the bottom. Make a handle at the top with extra yarn. It should be longer than the fringe at the bottom. Add a yarn pompon and you have a great scissors holder.—ROBERTA

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Please tell us some ways to remove lipstick marks from a painted wall.—MRS. H. R. P.

DEAR POLLY—I rub a cake of paraffin wax on the pole of my outside clothes dryer so the pole moves up and down more easily. The wax is easy to apply and will not soil clothes if they should touch it.—JANE

125 Grid Hopefuls Report For 1969 CMSC Squad

WARRENSBURG — The 1969 Fighting Mule Football season began Monday at Central Missouri State College when 125 grid hopefuls reported to Head Coach Howard Mahanes.

The turnout was the biggest in the CMSC football history, and could be the best in talent according to the head mentor. There are 29 returning lettermen in a crew of 37 returnees plus 88 first year men.

A number of season reserved seats are still available according to Athletic Director Floyd Walker. The four-game series season tickets are $10 each and may be ordered by writing to the Business Office at the College.

"The home games should be the most exciting ever offered to Mule fans," Walker said, pointing the Mules' opener against Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia who tied CMSC last season, 41-41. "The second home game is with Rolla whom we beat 20-16 in the final minutes last season, and the final game will be against Southeast Missouri State who has beat us out of the MIAA crown two consecutive years," he explained. The third home game is against Northwest Missouri State College.

Coach Mahanes and his staff have been meeting all last week in preparation for the unusually large reporting squad. Mahanes will look to returning coaches Archie Loehr, line coach, and Bob Patrick, offensive coach, to aid him and new defensive coaches Bill Holmes and Roger Denker. Holmes is in his first year at CMSC after moving from Northeast Missouri State, and Denker returns to the staff after a year's leave to work on his doctorate.

The players reported Monday afternoon, and began routine equipment checks, physicals and orientation meetings today. Practice will begin Wednesday with three field sessions in store for the squad every day except Saturday when only two practices are scheduled. No practices are scheduled for Sunday. The three per day practice times are

CMSC Mentor

9:30 a.m., 2:30 p.m., and 6:30 p.m., and are also scheduled for the following week.

Excitement is high in the Fighting Mules preseason camp as the football personnel and fans look forward to one of the best seasons in CMSC annals. The Mules turned in a 7-2-1 record last year including the Mineral Water Bowl post-season game.

Sporting a good nucleus of returning offensive players and two all-conference defensive players, the 1969 squad would like to record the first perfect record in the college's 65 year-old football history.

Football Cardinals View Film

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis football Cardinals viewed a special screening Monday of their 41-13 humiliation at the hands of Minnesota and even Coach Charley Winner agreed it was a tragedy in four quarters.

"We did all right on the ground," Winner said following team practice, "but our passing let us down. Both our throwing and catching."

Three of the Cards' seven drives in the second half were stopped by Viking interceptions. Winner noted.

Penalties also stopped several St. Louis drives. On one, "we held the ball nine plays and had a first down on their 43. On the other, we'd had the ball seven plays and had a first on their 25. But we were set back to long-yardage situations by the penalties," Winner said.

One question mark — among many — remains the coach's slot man choice for the regular season. Quarterback Charley Johnson lacked receiving power against the Vikings but his pre-season total — 26 points in two games — appears uninspired.

Jim Hart remains out of action due to a badly jammed finger and is unavailable for pre-season trials.

Winner said he would still play Hart "even if it's the last exhibition."

QB Gary Lane To Los Angeles

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — Gary Lane, former quarterback at the University of Missouri, was acquired by the Los Angeles Rams Monday in a move to bolster their offense.

The 26-year-old Lane has been with several National Football League teams in his four years as a professional. He will be with the Rams when they meet the Chargers in San Diego Saturday night.

Lane has played with the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants as a backup quarterback. The Giants placed the 6-foot-1, 210-pounder on waivers last year and he was claimed by the New Orleans Saints.

When the Saints waived him the Washington Redskins signed him as a free agent. He was waived by the Redskins before being picked up by the Rams.

Chiefs' Abell Goes to Denver For Draftee

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bud Abell, linebacker for the Kansas City Chiefs for four years, was traded to the Denver Broncos Monday for an undisclosed draft choice.

Abell, 28, was drafted as a future in 1964 while playing at the University of Missouri as a defensive end.

He spent his first year with the Chiefs on the taxi squad, and in 1966 was used primarily on specialty teams. Abell became the regular right linebacker after E. J. Holub was injured in 1967, but was moved back to the specialty squad last year.

"He has done a good job for us," said Coach Hank Stram. "He deserves the opportunity to play. Denver is looking for line-backing help and I'm sure he'll contribute to their squad."

Cardinals May Contend

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, fielding possibly their strongest team in four years, will be making a determined bid for the National Football League's Century Division title this season.

The Cardinals lost only one veteran from last year's team, which finished with a rush and wound up second in the division with a 9-4-1 record. Flanker Bobby Joe Conrad departed after 11 years with the Cardinals.

Oakland Stops Jets With 24-6 Drubbing

By SHEILA MORAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
The New York Jets, bothered by slippery fingers, and the city of Montreal, troubled by empty seats, are licking their wounds. For both, Monday was a night to forget.

The Oakland Raiders, who lost to the Jets 27-23 in last year's American Football League championship, got their revenge as they whipped the World Champions 24-6.

The city of Montreal fumbled its first test as a future expansion site for American pro football. Only 8,212 fans turned out to see Detroit beat Boston 22-9 in an interleague game, leaving more than three-quarters of the 28,845-seat Expos' baseball stadium empty.

Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica completed two touchdowns passes while New York could manage only two field goals. Jets quarterback Joe Namath watched most of the game from the bench.

Before leaving late in the first quarter, Namath drove the Jets to the Oakland three, but Emerson Boozer fumbled and linebacker Don Connors recovered for the Raiders at the one.

The Jets bungled again in the last minute of play when Mike Battle fumbled a kickoff after Oakland scored a field goal. Oakland's George Buehler, a rookie from Stanford, recovered on the Jets' 25.

The Raiders led all the way but Lamonica, playing nearly three periods, had his problems. He had three interceptions. Veteran George Blanda took over at quarterback and boosted the score to 14-6 when he fired a 22-yard touchdown pass to running back Larry Todd. Blanda added a 16-yard field goal with 1:04 left to play.

Lamonica returned to the game in the last quarter, moved the ball to the New York six and then threw his final touchdown pass to rookie Drew Buie with 14 seconds left.

The Patriots and the Lions did little to inspire the Montreal fans. The Patriots gained just four yards during a lackluster first half. Detroit's Errol Mann kicked three of his five field goals during that time and Boston's Gino Cappelletti countered with a 37-yarder. Cappelletti booted a 31-yarder in the third period and Mann a 12-yarder before the Lions broke it open. The Lions' other score came on a two-yard touchdown run by Mel Farr.

But the city fathers in Montreal aren't giving up, although the small crowd was an obvious disappointment to both John McHale, the Expos' president who booked the game, and Gerry Snyder, the vice-chairman of the executive committee in the city government.

Snyder insisted the game between the New York Giants and the Pittsburgh Steelers Sept. 11 would be a better test.

"Boston and Detroit are not the greatest draws as far as Montreal is concerned," Snyder said. "I think you'll see a better crowd when the New York Giants play here."

The Big Red replaced him with John Gilliam, picked up in a trade with the New Orleans Saints.

Gilliam, a third-year player, is a 9.5 sprinter and gives the Cardinals one of the best front-line receiving corps in the league. Dave Williams is the other wide receiver and Jackie Smith holds down the tight end spot. Both are rated terrific.

More important is the return of key players from the military. Quarterback Charley Johnson, who could spark the Cardinals to a division title, returns to full-time duty after two years limited by Army service. Knee injuries limited him for two years before that, but, with luck, there may be no limits this year.

Veteran linebacker Larry Stallings is another player returning to full-time duty after two years of playing on week-end passes. His return strengthens a pretty strong linebacker unit that complements the Cardinals' stout safeties, Larry Wilson and Jerry Stovall. Stovall was out most of last year with injuries.

"Offensively, we feel that Jim Hart continued to improve over his 1967 performance," Coach Charley Winner said, "and Charley Johnson's return should strengthen our attack."

Winner faces a delicate problem at quarterback. Johnson is back, but the less-experienced Hart has been the regular quarterback for two years. Winner probably will pick his starting quarterback on pre-season form and go with the hot hand after that.

In the end, it might be the offensive and defensive lines—and how healthy they stay—that determine St. Louis' fortune this year.

"The offensive line has been a strong and solid unit and we expect it to continue its fine performances of 1968," Winner said. "Defensively, our pass rush was greatly improved and we look for it to improve still more this year. We also wanted to reduce the number of cheap touchdowns scored against us, and achieved that goal last year."

The Cardinal offensive line is among the best in the league. The young, veteran unit failed the quarterback only 20 times last year, and sometimes it was the quarterback's fault. The defensive line may not be quite as good, but it's still good. Both units, however, have little in the way of proven reserves.

Another strong point is the Cardinal running game. Johnny Roland, an explosive runner, should be completely healed from a knee injury of two years ago. He seemed hesitant to run all out at times last year. Winner expects him at peak form this year.

Powerful Willis Crenshaw who gave indications of coming into his own last year; Roy Shivers, MacArthur Lane, and Cid Edwards all are impressive runners in what looks like the Cardinals' most impressive department. They could very well lug the Cardinals to the division title.

Cubs' Lead Down to 4½

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
While the other sardines in the National League's tightly-packed West Division rested, Cincinnati squeezed in a little more and, together with Washington, closed ranks in several other divisions.

The Reds slipped by the Chicago Cubs 9-8 Monday in the National League's only game that jumped Cincinnati ahead of Atlanta into second place by percentage points in the NL West.

The loss also cut the Cubs' East lead over the idle New York Mets to 4½ games, two games on the loss side.

Washington had an easier time getting by Minnesota 7-3 Monday night in the only American League game, bringing idle Oakland 1½ games from the first place Twins in the AL West and putting them even in the all-important loss column.

The Reds used their home run power to build a 9-4 lead, but needed some fielding finesse to stop the Cubs with only four runs in the ninth inning.

With the bases loaded and two out, Paul Popovich lined a 2-2 pitch off Pedro Ramos to right field where Bobby Tolan made a fine running catch to end the game.

Tony Perez had ripped a two-run homer in the first for Cincinnati and Lee Maye belted his 34th in the fourth, but the score was deadlocked 3-3 before Perez hit his second of the game and 32nd of the season in the sixth to put the Reds ahead to stay.

Cincinnati ran it up with three more in the seventh and three in the ninth, two on Johnny Bench's double, but found themselves in a ninth inning bind after Jim Hickman's 15th homer for the Cubs in the eighth.

Gary Nolan, 4-5, walked the first two batters in the bottom of the ninth and Wayne Granger relieved and retired the next two. But then Ron Santo doubled in two runs, Ernie Banks singled, Hickman doubled in another run and two walks forced in the fourth. That's when Ramos entered.

"I thought the ball would die and I was ready to make a diving catch," Tolan said of Popovich's liner, "but it just hung there and I grabbed it."

The grab left the Reds a half game and three percentage points behind San Francisco, two percentage points ahead of Atlanta and five points in front of Los Angeles. And fifth place Houston is only 20 points from the lead.

The Cubs, meanwhile, saw their 9½ game lead over the Mets 13 days ago shrink to 4½.

Frank Howard carried the Senators with his 40th homer and three singles, including a shocking bunt in the ninth inning that led to three insurance runs on Ed Stroud's run-scoring hit and Del Unser's single for two more.

Howard's blast came in the first off Jim Kaat, 11-11, and his first single set up a decisive three-run third inning. Ken McMullen singled in two of the runs and scored the third when Rich Reese bobbled Unser's grounder.

Charlie Brown Cut

COVINGTON, La. (AP) — Three veterans were cut from the roster of the New Orleans Saints Monday, including running back Charlie Brown.

Brown, drafted by the Saints from the University of Missouri in 1967, has been plagued with injuries.

Royals May Call Up Many Young Players

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals are poised to call up as many as a dozen players from their minor league farm teams as soon as season play ends down on the farm.

Cedric Tallis, executive vice president and general manager, said Monday that the Royals will recall all of their optioned players, except for those who must hurry off for the start of fall college classes.

"We have 14 players optioned out," Tallis said. "We'll call up most of them when their minor league seasons end, probably about 12."

"Some of them won't be able to come because of school commitments."

Tallis said the callup won't mean the Royals will begin trying to play everybody and not concentrate on winning baseball games.

"We've got our eye on placing third in our division and winning 70 or more games," he said. "And we're going to keep that goal."

What the Royals will do, Tallis said, is hold special workouts with Manager Joe Gordon and his coaches working with those recalled. Many will get to play, too.

"We're going to have some special workouts here to drill them," Tallis said. "We want to work them every chance we get."

Thirteen of the players the Royals have on option will be winding up the American Association season Labor Day with Omaha. They are pitchers Jerry Cram, Alan Fitzmorris, Steve Jones, Don O'Riley and Joe Warden, catchers Jim Campanis, Fran Healy and Dennis Paepke, second baseman Luis Alcaraz and outfielders Scott Northey, Bob Oliver, Fred Rico and George Sprigs.

On option to High Point-Thom- asville in the Carolina League is first baseman Dan Haynes.

Alcaraz, Sprigs and pitcher Chris Zachary made the American Association all-star team announced Sunday.

No Windfall, Nixon Says

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — The Nixon administration is seeking to dispel any idea that the nation will have a financial windfall for domestic programs when the Vietnam war ends.

It sees the possibility that defense spending after peace comes may even be higher than it is now.

President Nixon's urban affairs adviser, Daniel P. Moynihan, said Monday "there is not likely to be anything like the free resources we had hoped for."

Gray Squirrel Has Rough Time

A nice safe cage proved to be anything but that for a gray squirrel who is one of the exhibits at the Department of Conservation's building on the State Fair grounds here.

Put in a cage next to a red-tailed hawk, the squirrel made the mistake of getting on the wire netting separating the two cages. The hawk swooped across the cage and grabbed the squirrel through the wire, not once but twice.

Both times attendants pried him loose and finally moved the squirrel to a cage next to a bunch of raccoons. They proceeded to torment the squirrel by nipping at its feet. One finally grabbed the squirrel's tail and jerked out a bunch of hair.

At last report, the squirrel was sitting in the exact middle of his cage, huddled up in a ball and looking neither right nor left.

"We're not going to have the dream world people thought after the war is over," Moynihan said.

He gave this assessment after a three-hour Urban Affairs Council meeting with Nixon at the Western White House, devoted to a detailed analysis of what the American economy can be expected to do over the next five fiscal years and the question of national priorities on spending.

In preparing for the transition to a peacetime economy, Nixon called for a study by a group headed by Dr. Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers. It was their report that the Urban Council took up Monday at the longest meeting it has held.

Asked if he could elaborate on why the money now being spent on Vietnam, would not be available for peaceful purposes after the war ends, he said: "I think the real accurate question is: 'Who thought it was going to be in the first place?'"

Moynihan said "we see a country that is strong and prosperous."

Baptist League

Monday night action in the Harmony Baptist Softball League found Bethany being downed by Syracuse, 8-5; LaMonte pounded Smithton, 16-2 and Flat Creek ran over Calvary, 19-3.

Only two games are on tap for tonight. At 6:30 p.m., Mt. Olive goes against Sedalia Harmony; East Sedalia squares off against Emmett Avenue at 8 p.m.

pering and going to become stronger and more prosperous but we also see a country that has a lot of problems today because, 10, 15 years ago this effort to anticipate change and make decisions about priorities did not occur."

Moynihan noted that there are built-in expenditures in the nation's budget that are constantly increasing, such as Medicare and education. The new welfare programs Nixon has proposed and expects Congress to pass, he said, will add billions.

He pointed to the $4.2 billion family assistance program, revenue-sharing with states and cities expected to reach $5 billion a year by 1975, and a mass transit program at a 12-year cost of $10 billion.

He said the Defense Department also will have to replace some resources depleted by the Vietnam war.

Asked whether he was leaving open the possibility of a larger defense budget after the war, Moynihan said "by definition that is a possibility, yes."

Moynihan said a January economic report issued under the Johnson administration which anticipated some $22.5 billion would be available within 18 months after the end of the Vietnam hostilities "simply was not realistic."

Younger Pros Beat Old Pros At Dub's Dread

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, despite his aching hip, made the 7,800 yards of Dub's Dread golf course look easy Monday as they beat Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden 3 and 2 in a handicap benefit match.

The gallery of 1,500 saw Nicklaus turn in a 69 on a layout that rates more than 76 strokes. He missed one green and had one bogey.

Palmer, playing his first round since dropping off the tournament circuit Aug. 15, had a 71, including some brilliant shots.

McSpaden and Nelson, top golfers of the 1940s, claimed a 50-yard handicap on each hole. McSpaden, who owns the course, had a 71. Nelson picked up on No. 4 and shot a 34 on the back nine.

Nicklaus and Palmer went on to another exhibition in Denver today, with Palmer still uncertain how long his hip will keep him off the tournament tour.

"The hip wasn't real good," Palmer said after the Monday round. "I'm not going to push it. If it isn't real good after our exhibition in Denver, I'll just go back home and rest."

The handicap match was played for the benefit of the Boys Clubs in Johnson County, Kansas.

Spencer Haywood Goes Professional
DENVER (AP) — For Spencer Haywood, the 6-foot-4 dynamo who starred for the University of Detroit and the U.S. Olympic team, there was virtually no choice in turning professional.

"I had overwhelming family responsibilities," said Haywood after signing with the American Basketball Association Denver Rockets despite his two remaining years of college eligibility. "I have a mother and nine children to support. I just had to do it."
